Mark Neithercut appointed to Council on Foundations committee

Detroit/Chicago – April 18, 2011 – Mark E. Neithercut, principal and founder of Neithercut Philanthropy Advisors LLC, with offices in Detroit and Chicago, has been selected to serve on the Professional Development Committee of the Council on Foundations. Neithercut was nominated for the position by his colleagues because of his leadership in the field and his work as a trustee of the Anna Paulina Foundation, a private family foundation in Flint, Michigan which supports arts and youth development.

The Professional Development Committee of the Council of Foundations is advisory in nature and informs the Council's staff on ways to enhance professional development services to the field. Neithercut is honored to have been selected to work with the Council to assess and develop the educational tools they offer to foundation CEOs, board members, program officers, and other staff.

Neithercut Philanthropy Advisors creates strategies for effective, rewarding philanthropy for foundations, charitable individuals and professional advisors around the U.S. The firm has extensive experience in working with foundations to develop strategic frameworks that ensure maximum impact, success, and fulfillment. Recent clients include the Max M. and Marjorie S. Fisher Foundation, the Matilda Wilson Fund, the Kansas Health Foundation and the Ruth Mott Foundation.
